COLOR LOOPS

Color Loops is the result of the second edition of the Motion Experience Lab curated by Prof. Nina Juric and supported by Michael Titze (Pfadfinderei) at Köln International School of Design.

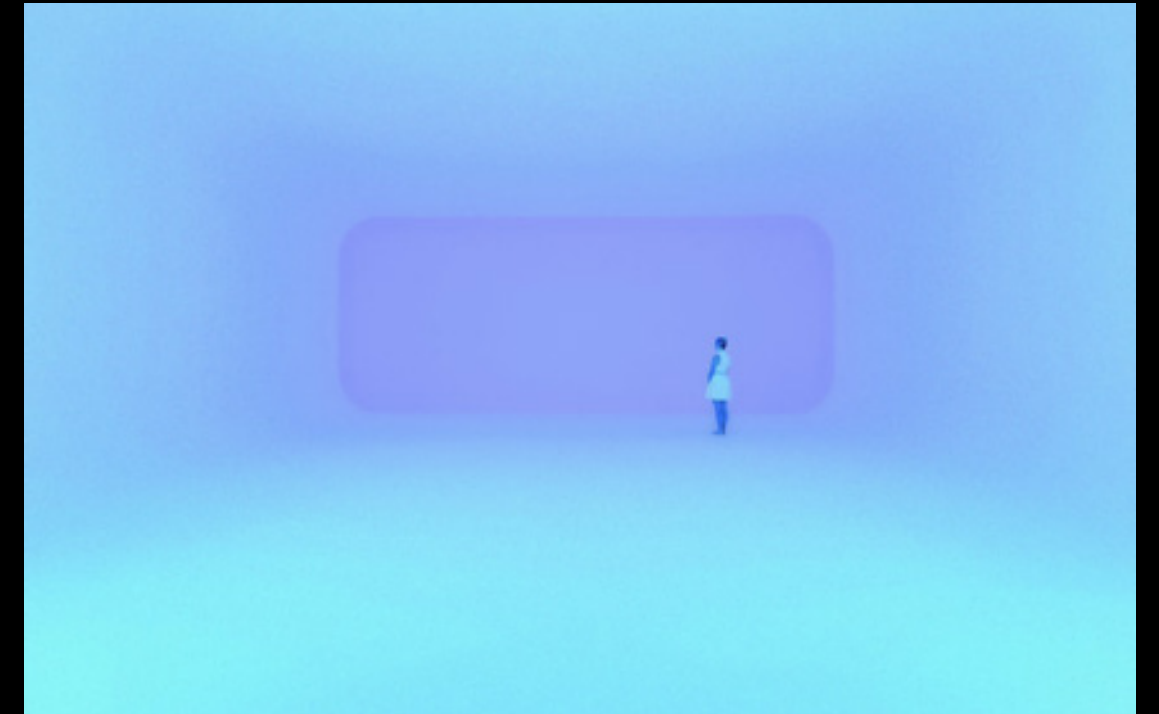

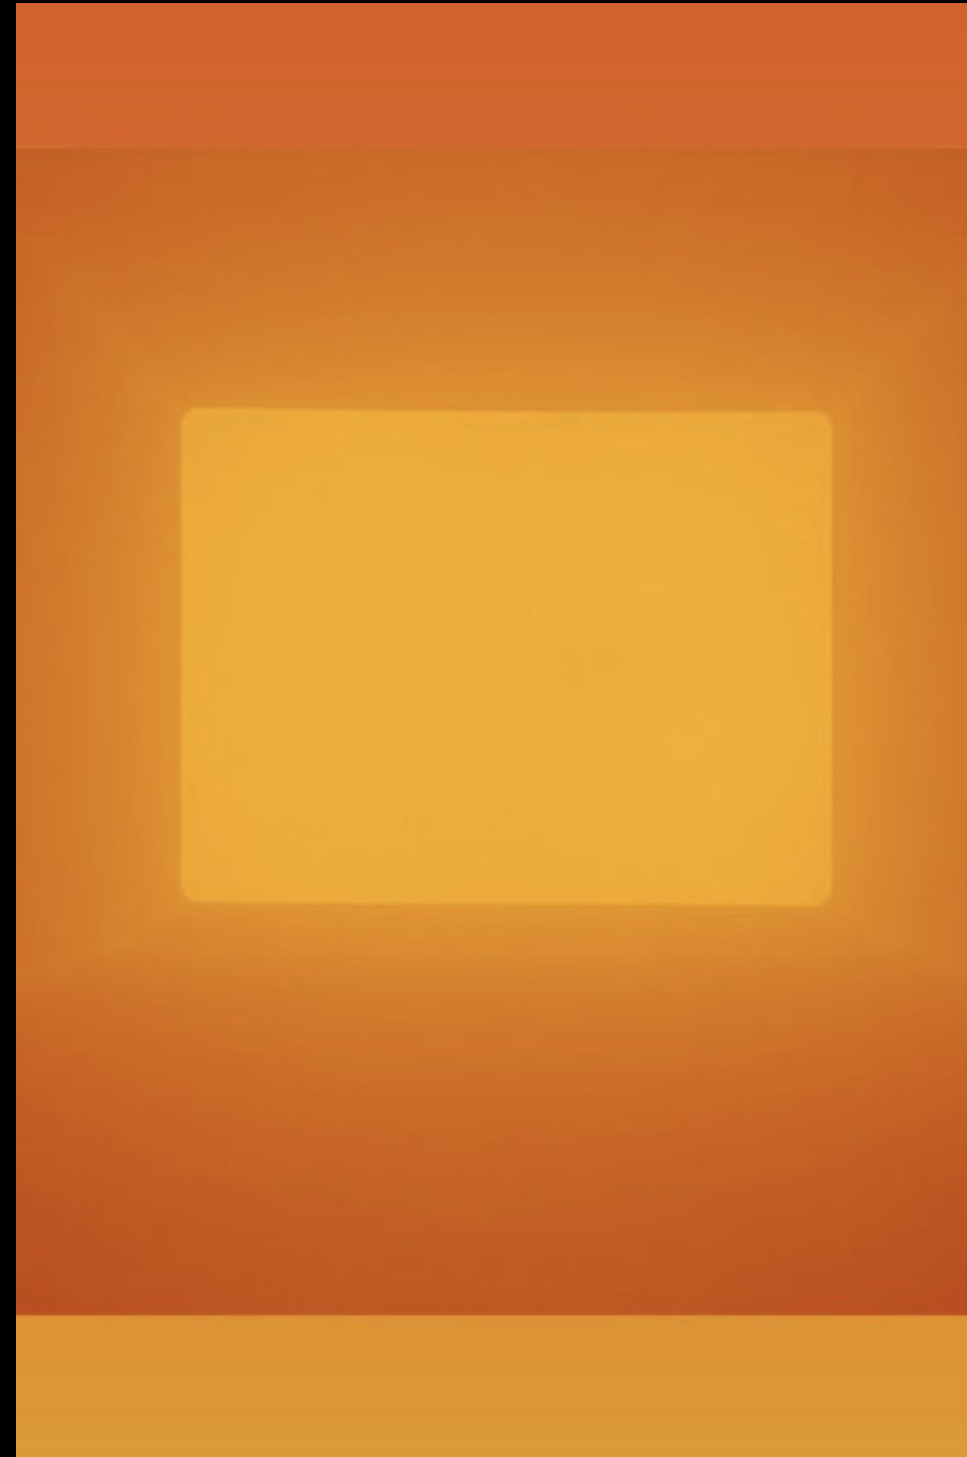

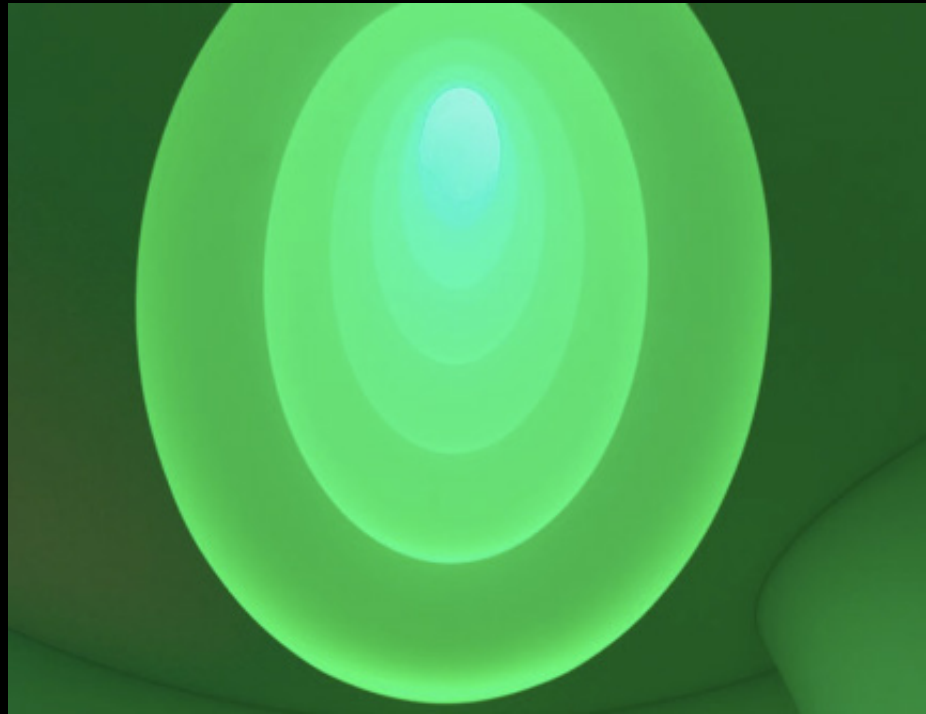

In this one week workshop, we decided to create an installation by working with waxed paper, which is a translucent material. This gave us a chance to play with the reflection of the ambient light of our graphical mappings onto our canvas.

This project was heavily influenced by the immersed light installation by the American artist James Turrell.

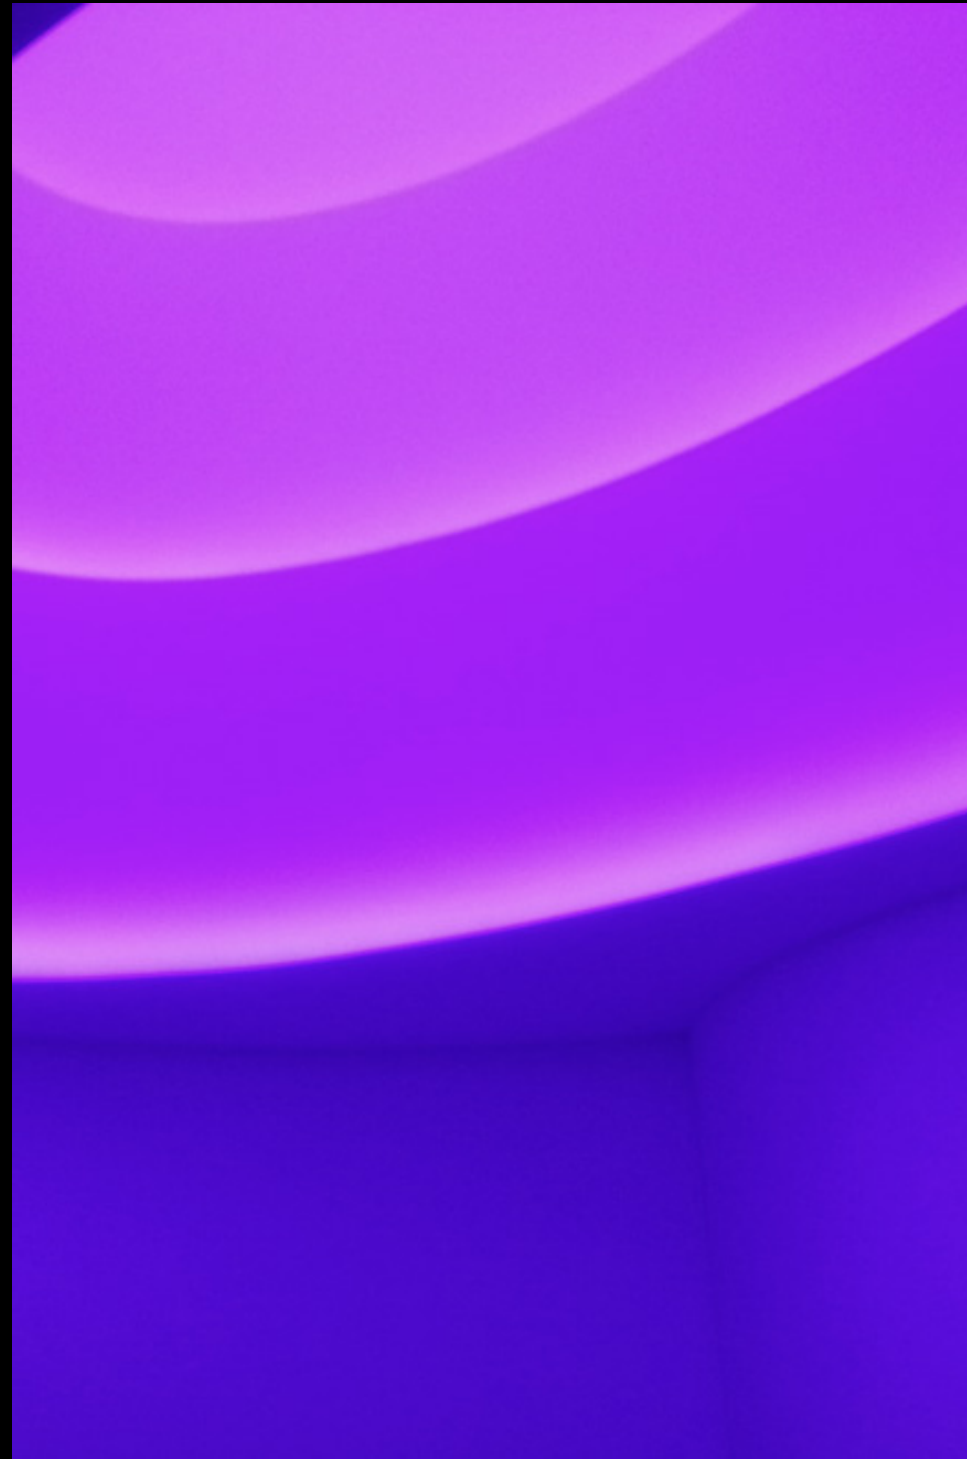

For our audiovisual live performance, we chose to play the Song "Where Do They Go, The Butterflies" by the artist Mark Pritchard, to create an atmospheric piece, working with light, graphics and sound.

The goal of this workshop was to gain the understanding of the fundamentals needed for a live performance. The key was to create the necessary and bring the whole set into a presentationable form.
